Judge De Bolt this morning signed

the commission appointing Job Batchelor clerk of his court, to succeed P. Danson Kellett, who resigned last Saturday after having been arrested There were no less than seven applicants for Kellett's job, among them being several who are at present employed at the courts. Among these was John Marcallino, who was, in the opinion of the Judiciary building prophets, the favorite in the race. The appointment of Batchelor was therefore somewhat of a surprise. Batchelor has a good record as a public officer, having or a number of years filled the office of license inspector. He has seen con-siderably of the courts as a juror.
